School Building Plans Receive Preliminary O.K.

Queens, Whiskers, Take Old Settlers' Day Spotlight

Plans for participation in the Old Settlers Day program on February 22, were pouring in as different Campbell organizations announced plans for their part in the annual event. Old Settlers' Day committee members convened on Tuesday evening to discuss arrangements for the gala day.

Queen applicants for the Queen contest are uregd to sign up at the Campbell Press. The Queen will be crowned at the Old Settlers' Day dance in the high school gym and valuable prizes will be awarded to the Queen and the runner-up.

Registration of Old Settlers will open the program at the high school, with registration continuing from 9:30 to 10:30. Plans are being completed for members of the Building Corporation, American Legion Post No. 596, to put on the luncheon which will be served at noon in honor of the Old Settlers.

Parade entries are beginning to line up and everything points to the best Old Settlers' Day program ever put over in Campbell. William C. Henley is serving as chairman for the event.

Barber shops in the Campbell area are also taking registrations for the contest.

Local Orchardist Named Chairman Of Special Farm Group

Frank Steindorf of Campbell, prominent orchardist and a state director of the Farm Bureau, was selected chairman of a special farm committee to serve in an advisory capacity to Lt.-Gov. Goodwin J. Knight in preparing legislation in Sacramento.

Steindorf's appointment was made Thursday when Knight visited San Jose to confer with Republican leaders and take part in two speaking engagements. Lt.-Gov. was in Santa Clara County to open his campaign for re-election.

Alvin Lake and Clifford T. Cassiday, also of Campbell, were present for the gathering. Lake has been instrumental in planning a farm program for Knight.

Temporary Lights For New Wing

The installation of temporary lighting in the new unfinished building at Campbell grammar school was approved at Wednesday's meeting of the school board, according to William C. Henley, district superintendent.

At the meeting it was decided to apply for additional funds to be made available for districts burdened with an excessive growth of student population. Finances would be used for operation and maintenance cost of the schools involved.

The school board also accepted the resignation of Mrs. Elizabeth Free, kindergarten teacher, and voted to hire Mrs. Dorothy Kinney as her replacement.

Friday The 13th Jinx Day For Wards

Mrs. Hazel Ward was treated early Friday by Dr. Johannes for an injured leg which she suffered when attempting to pass over the area in front of the Country Women's clubhouse which is being repaired. It was Friday the 13th, and Hazel knew she shouldn't have ventured out of the house.

An unprecedented storm of approximately 10 minutes duration Wednesday covered streets and ground in Campbell with hail, causing much excitement among the small fry—to say nothing of the blase older residents. The hard white stuff pelted down with sufficient force to clear the streets of pedestrians and make driving difficult, while the parked cars along the curbings received a coating of white reminiscent of "back east." "But," said the older residents, "That's California weather for you. It's UNUSUAL!"

Future Farmer Film Highlights Tuesday Meeting Of Orchard City Grange Group

A lecture program under Wesley Youngclaus featured the Future Farmers of Campbell Union High School at the Orchard City Grange meeting held in IOOF Hall in Campbell on Tuesday.

Albert Smith, director of the Future Farmers at the local high school, presented a film concerning the activities of this organization and how boys learn farming step by step along with raising prize livestock. This chapter of FFA is being sponsored by Orchard City Grange.

The Grange has accumulated $62.09 by individual contribution of members toward a new Grange Hall. This money is being put into a special building fund where it will draw interest. A Grange Hall committee has been formed for the purpose of keeping up enthusiasm for the proposed project. Members of the committee are A. J. Emery, Mrs. Charlotte Sutter, Jerry Locke, Wesley Youngclaus, and Mrs. Genevieve Helmbold.

A student loan committee was formed, consisting of Albert Smith of the high school faculty, M. F. Hughes, Wesley Youngclaus, and A. J. Emery. Mr. Smith will adminster the fund to aid some worthy student. No more than $50.00 will be loaned to any one student. At a recent Grange ham dinner $100.87 was raised and will be applied to this special fund.

OLD SETTLERS' FLOAT

The Grange decided to enter a float in the Old Settlers' Day parade February 22 and will also have a booth at the Santa Clara County Fair. Other Grange business included the selection of the Hospitality committee composed of Mrs. Elaine Youngclaus, Mrs. Ann Gardner, and Mrs. Genevieve Helmbold. Mrs. Youngclaus was also elected to the office of Pomona with the resignation of Mrs. Ann Gardner.

Elected to Grange membership at the meeting was Mrs. Frances Rexroat, the mother of Mrs. Genevieve Helmbold. Mr. and Mrs. Leith Everitt presented demit cards from the Cortland Grange of Ohio and were accepted as members in the Orchard City group.

Rosenberg Bros. Packing Co. of Santa Clara donated packages of prunes, showing several methods of packing in order to keep prunes sugar sweet. There is a new process for making what are called Saran bags, which are used for overseas shipping to protect against moisture and mold. It is more expensive, but the crop arrives safely for marketing in foreign countries.

Mervyn and Leone Keesling will head a card party committee to make preparations for the scheduled card event on February 25. Refreshments were served in the banquet hall at the Tuesday meeting of the Grange.

Rachel's Burglary Remains Unsolved

No new developments have been reported by the Santa Clara County Sheriff's office in regards to the Rachel's Women's Apparel shop burglary in Campbell on Thursday, December 29.

Investigators of the Sheriff's office are still working on the theft, but no new clues have been uncovered. Burglars took an estimated $1000 in merchandise from the 294 S. Campbell Avenue store.

Discovery of the burglary was made by Mrs. Edith H. Larkin, co-owner of the shop with Mrs. Emily McConnell when they arrived to open for business at 9:30 in the morning. The outside rear door was slightly ajar.

A small amount of change in the till was untouched, according to the co-owners. They believe the job was done by professionals, because the burglars stayed well to the rear of the store. Their only light was a small candle globe over the slip shelves.

Sidewalks Being Replaced Around Woman's Club

Sidewalks in front and on the side of the Campbell Country Women's Clubhouse, corner Campbell avenue and S. First Street, were being widened this week by Pete Cristich, contractor. Mrs. J. M. Dahl, president of the club, stated that the new sidewalks, which will extend from the lawn out to the curbing, were part of the improvement project being carried out by the club. Trees surrounding the clubhouse were removed earlier in the year as their roots were continuously pushing up the sidewalks and creating a walking hazard. It is hoped that by extending the sidewalks, that persons will use the walks instead of the lawns.

John W. Silberbauer, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Silberbauer of Campbell, has been located in Los Angeles after being reported missing Tuesday.

Information on the whereabouts of the youth was received by his relatives in Los Gatos only a few hours after an all-points bulletin had been broadcast for his return.

The Los Gatos Elementary School student was with relatives in Los Angeles and was scheduled to be returned yesterday, according to his aunt, Mrs. Jack Griffith, 78 Broadway in Los Gatos.

The boy was last seen in Los Gatos at 3 p.m. Tuesday on the grammar school playground. Los Gatos police did not broadcast the all-points bulletin until Wednesday when it was certain the boy had not just been away for the night.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL BOARD RECEIVES BUILDING PLAN APPROVAL FROM STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

District Superintendent William C. Henley and the Campbell Elementary School Board of Trustees received preliminary approval on its proposed future building plan when the local group met with Paul Rivers of the Division of School Planning, State Board of Education, Wednesday in Campbell.

The next step of the Campbell board will be to make an application to the Division of Finance, a body which must approve this proposed project. Mr. Rivers placed his stamp of approval on the proposed building plans under Chapter 1389 of the Statute of 1949 (Proposition 1 passed at the November 8 election).

If the local board is approved enough funds by the Division of Finance, District Superintendent Henley said that the local board plans to complete all unfinished buildings in the district and to construct cafetoriums where they do not now exist. The proposal also calls for the increase in shop and music facilities at the present grammar school, the building of a new school including cafetorium on a site recently purchased on Hazelwood Avenue in Campbell.

Henley indicated that the proposed plan also includes the purchase of three new land sites and the construction of three additional schools and cafetoriums on these locations. New additions comprising a program of 104,000 square building feet will accomodate approximately 1500 additional students in this district.

If the proposal is given final approval by the State, the cost of these school additions may run up to the million dollar mark. The school board at Wednesday's meeting instructed Higgins & Root, San Jose architects, to start preparations for drawing up preliminary plans on the four existing sites.

Securing preliminary approval from Mr. Rivers was the first major step in the program to make this building plan a reality. Campbell has grown by leaps and bounds and is now one of the largest elementary school districts in Santa Clara County.

CAMPBELL HIGH SCHOOL BOARD CALLS FOR BIDS ON SIX NEW CLASSROOMS OF MODERN DESIGN

Members of the Campbell High School Board of Trustees, meeting Wednesday afternoon at the high school, released a notice to contractors for the construction of an additional six room unit, north of the present shops, to be of one story, modern construction.

This action was taken by the board members to ensure adequate classrooms for the anticipated increase of 180 students who will be enrolling in the high school next fall. Laurance J. Hill, superintendent of the school, stated that 967 students now enrolled in the school are expected to increase to 1000 in February when the grammar schools would be graduating a small class of mid-year students.

The construction of the new class rooms is in accordance with the overall plan drawn up by the school board, for the continued construction of new units within the current budget to take care of the increasing enrollment in the school. During the last two years an additional 17 acres of ground adjacent to the school has been purchased for future development.

Bids for the new school unit will be opened at 8 p.m. February 1, 1950 by the Board of Trustees at the Campbell High School. Architects for the building are Clark and Stromquist of 321 Channing Avenue, Palo Alto, California. All contractors receiving plans must pay a deposit of $25 which will be refunded when the plans and specifications are returned. Cashiers or certified check or bidder's bond in the amount of five per cent of the bid, but in no case to exceed $3000, must accompany the bids.

Campbell School Eligible For State Emergency Aid

Campbell Union elementary school is among the 20 Santa Clara County elementary school districts believed eligible for State funds recently made available through a measure passed by the Legislature to aid school distressed by under-financing and overcrowding.

Dr. O. S. Hubbard, county superintendent of schools, indicated that although 20 are said to be eligible to apply for funds, other school districts will have the opportunity to study requirements and apply if conditions warrant.

Questions of school officials on preparation of application forms will be heard at 2 p.m. Friday, January 13, by T. H. Battelle, a member of the State Department of Instruction, at the school department office on Moorpark Avenue.

Hubbard stated that elementary school districts considered eligible for emergency aid include Campbell Uniono, Adams, Alum Rock bell Union, Adams, Alum Rock Encinal, Franklin-McKinley, Jefferson Union, Los Altos, Los Gatos Union, Mt. Pleasant, Mountain View, Orchard, San Martin, San Ysidro, Saratoga Union, Summit, Sunnyvale, Union, and Whisman.

Percentage of increase in enrollment, financial condition of the district, and assessed valuation form the basis for determining eligibility for State financial aid.

Dr. Hubbard concluded that no high schools in Santa Clara County are considered eligible for State money under the bill at the present time.

PEERLESS STAGE APPOINTS LOCAL TICKET AGENTS

New Peerless stage ticket agents for Campbell starting last Tuesday were Mary Gray and Anna Shaw at the Blue Bell Cafe, 20 W. Campbell Avenue, according to Robert M. Bartholdi, Peerless Branch manager.

The Peerless Stage Commission Agency at the cafe will handle express, baggage, and tickets. Buses traveling through Campbell will continue to stop at the corner of Campbell and Central Avenue.

Orchard City Creamery was the former site of the local ticket agency for Peerless. Expiration of the creamery lease made the ticket agency change necessary.

Parking Action Postponed

Action on parking ordinances on Campbell avenue were continued until next Monday by members of the Board of Supervisors at the Tuesday meeting. A two-hour auto parking zone on Campbell avenue from Winchester Road to the railroad tracks between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. is being sought, with the American Legion patrol volunteering to enforce the ordinance. Exceptions to this proposal would be a 15-minute zone in front of the Post Office, the present taxi stand at Campbell and Central avenues and no-parking zones in front of Campbell Theatre and fire department.

Campbell Sanitary District, taking in the entire Campbell community, was formally ordered incorporated to the County Sanitation District No. 4 by order of the Board of Supervisors Tuesday.

This action was taken after the Supervisors called a public hearing to hear any protests to the plan, but received none.

County Counsel Howard W. Campen indicated that the written resolution will be ready for submission to Board of Supervisors at next Monday's meeting. Negotiations for merging the two sanitary districts have been underway for the past few months, following the passage of the $1,640,000 sewer bond issue in the November election.

Construction of a new trunk line sewer system which will hook the Campbell Sanitary district onto the San Jose main line, is expected to be started in the spring. The Campbell Sanitary District, which now has $50,000 outstanding bonds will incorporate with the County District No. 4 upon payment of the principal and interest payments as they become due.

ACCENT IS ON STYLE IN 1950 CHRYSLER MODELS

The Chrysler 1950 New Yorker four-door sedan, with restyled longer rear fenders, more massive bumpers, new radiator grille, better visibility from the larger rear window and powered by the 135-hp. Spitfire engine.

Rear view of the Chrysler Windsor series Newport, a new steel top "convertible" with distinctive styling around the rear window and no window or door posts to obstruct the view when windows are down.

Interior of the 1950 Chrysler New Yorker four-door sedan, showing the new arm rest on the doors, a waffle pattern in the door panel upholstery and the center arm rest in the rear seat.

Completely new and distinctive styling, producing added beauty inside and out, features the 1950 Chrysler line. Among the important improvements are a new grille, longer rear fenders carried to their full height almost to the rear of the car; a new and artistic grouping of tail light, stoplight and turn signal flush mounted in each rear fender, giving sleek, graceful rear end lines; a new rear window with 27 per cent more glass area; changes in the instrument panel; and larger brakes on the six-cylinder models. Nineteen body styles are offered in the Royal, Windsor, New Yorker, Saratoga and Crown Imperial series.

Newport Model Is New

There is a slight increase in exterior width, length and height. Interior dimensions remain unchanged, retaining the generous head room, leg room, chair-height seats and ease of entrance and exit that have proved so popular in the 1949 models.

One entirely new model, the Newport, has been introduced. This is known as a special club coupe, but in effect it is a hard top convertible available on both six and eight-cylinder chassis. It offers the sleek lines of a standard convertible, with the added safety provided by a fixed steel top. Chrysler's new self-energizing disk brakes are standard equipment on the Town and Country Newport, as well as on the Crown Imperial models.

Appearance improvements begin at the front bumper, which is wider and more massive, and are carried through to the rear bumper. Different styling features have been incorporated in the sixes and in the eights, so that one is readily distinguished from the other at first glance. Among the points of difference between the two lines are the parking lights, the length of the molding on the front fender, the nameplate on the front of the radiator and the wheel cover.

15 Standard Body Colors

Upholstery options have been increased and finer fabrics are offered. Fifteen standard body colors and four special colors are available, nine of them entirely new.

The new 12-inch diameter brakes adopted for the sixes have 15 per cent more lining contact area than the 11-inch type formerly used. This results in lighter brake pedal pressure and greater reserve.

Successful Parenthood

BY

MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS

Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

WHEN LITTLE GIRLS play with their dolls at housekeeping they are always elaborately polite with each other. It is "Mrs." this and "Mrs." that, with "How is your baby today?" and clucks of sympathy if the doll baby is supposed to be ailing. But have you noticed how rude they often are to their dolls? "You're a bad, bad baby," they will say, with a shake or a spank.

Doesn't this reflect the double standard of courtesy parents often have for their own grown-up friends and their children? If you meet a friend in the grocery market and she has obviously come in a hurry and not waited to smooth her hair and put on fresh lipstick, you don't say, "My, you look a sight this morning!" But if one of your children should dash up to you in the store, where he may have spied you on his way home from school, aren't you apt to exclaim, "How did you get your shirt so dirty — and for goodness sake wear the tails either in or out, not half and half."

In other words, adults try not to embarrass their friends, but they seem to feel that children haven't any feelings about being criticized in public. On the contrary, children often have a greater sense of personal dignity than adults. A friend of mine hated school for years because a kindergarten teacher, thinking the child was too warmly dressed, removed an undergarment in front of the class, a blow to the child's sense of dignity and privacy.

There are, of course, many ways in which children must be treated differently from adults. They must be protected from their own lack of wisdom in taking care of themselves physically, they must have an earlier bedtime, their dressing must be supervised to insure enough warm clothing in winter and they must be kept close at home until they are old enough to watch out for their own safety on the streets. But different handling needn't mean less courteous treatment.

What we've been saying doesn't all come under the head of "Children's Rights." It is just as much to your own advantage to be polite with your children, for that is the only way you can teach them manners.

You will have to respect their feelings if you want spontaneous consideration from them. If you are habitually unwilling to stop your work to listen to something a child wants to tell you, you are apt to get inattention when you ask him to stop his play and "Come here this minute."

You can, however, go too far in putting the child's interests first. There are families where visitors, grandparents, parents are forced to stop in the middle of a sentence if Junior wants to say something. This can lead to lording it over his playmates, though fortunately a gang of healthy kids is quite capable of providing a counter-balance to too indulgent parents.

Some of the best weather records are kept by trees. By carefully studying tree rings, scientists know what kind of weather prevailed many years before written weather records were started—as far back as 3,000 years in some areas.

Local Man Knows Meaning Of 'March Of Dimes'

Smith Kline, 760 El Solyo Dr., Campbell, has a special interest in the coming weeks. Between January 16 and January 31, the annual March of Dimes campaign will take place in Campbell, in Santa Clara county, and throughout the nation—and Kline is an ardent March of Dimes booster. Kline was struck by polio last January and was hospitalized for four months, while funds collected by the March of Dimes in Santa Clara county paid his hospital, doctor, and physio-therapy bills. "Give to the March of Dimes," Smith urges his neighbors, "if only for the selfish reason that polio may strike your home this year."

Medical Discoveries Aid Epileptics

THEY LOOK like everyone else. They are no smarter, no more ignorant. Some have poor jobs, others excellent jobs. Some inhabit cities, others farms; some are in jail, others in hospitals . . . just like any similar group representing all income and social levels.

This group of Americans contains 800,000 men, women and children, all with one thing in common that separates them from others—they have epilepsy.

Mislabeled as insanity in early civilization, the affliction today continues to be misunderstood . . . even by those who have it. Pathetic questions—"Can I marry?"—"Can I have children?" — "Can I get a job?" — beset family doctors.

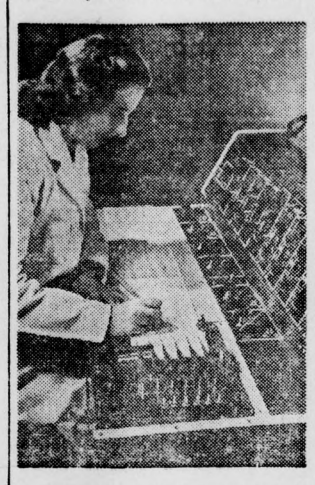

To combat fear and ignorance surrounding epilepsy, the American Epilepsy league has been organized as a non-profit organization. It seeks to make living easier for epileptics.

About 50 per cent of all epileptics can control their seizures completely, and another 25 per cent can exercise almost complete control over these electrical storms in the brain cells. Control of seizures does away with physical signs of the illness and eliminates problems of personal relationship.

But many epileptics avoid treatment because fear and public misunderstanding won't let them admit they have the disease. And good treatment is hard to find, because methods have come only recently out of the research laboratories.

All types of epilepsy are caused by mild brain injury or severe nervous shock. The kind of seizure depends upon the part of the brain injured. The three main types are not just degrees of one main illness.

Epilepsy's cause can be compared to overload on some of the trunk lines of a telephone switchboard. In the non-epileptic brain, the board can sort out the "calls" or stimuli, keeping each cell separate and giving a "busy signal" when the line is in use. Seizure comes when the board is jammed without being able to sort the calls, or when it places more than one call on the same line at the same time.

Epilepsy has been likened to overflow of a dam that curbs the river of nervous energy. Treatment is building the dam higher. Different drugs are used to strengthen the different dams or parts of the nervous system that overflow to cause the three major types of epilepsy: grand mal, petit mal and psychomotor.

One of the most exact ways to learn the full story of a patient's epilepsy is the use of the electro-encephalograph or brain wave recorder. This device identifies the various types of the disease from electrical currents given off by the brain and records the currents.

When more modern information about epilepsy is known by doctors, the average epileptic will lead a happier life. Most of the barriers that keep the patient from leading a normal life are artificial. Many persons think that the person with epilepsy is completely handicapped. They fail to consider ways he is handicapped and the length of time the handicap conflicts with normal life or work.

By ignoring degree of handicap, many laws and administrative practices are unfair to epileptics. Epileptics can work, go to school, be married and have children . . . if the public will accept them as it accepts other people.

It is not hard to understand why the average employer does not want to hire an epileptic. During an epileptic seizure, the epileptic is not only a danger to himself, but also often a danger to his fellow employees.

However, all forms of employment need not be of a dangerous nature and, where the patient and his fellow employees know that an attack may occur, slight precautions on the patient's part and on the part of other employees renders it safe for many epileptics to earn their own living.

As a number of returned soldiers, sailors, and airmen have such mental and emotional disturbances that epileptic attacks have resulted, everything must now be done to restore them insofar as possible to their best physical and mental condition. This is called rehabilitation.

Tax Returns For Farmers Outlined

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles, prepared by Collector of Internal Revenue James G. Smyth of the First California District, outlining and explaining the preparation and filing of farmers' income tax returns.)

The extension of the deadline of January 15 to January 31, 1950, for all farmers to file their first income tax returns on 1949 earnings should enable thousands to file final returns by this date.

For income tax purposes, all those who derived two-thirds or more of their incomes from the operation of a farm or ranch either as owners or tenants are considered farmers. Crop-share payments of rents is considered farm income. Any person deriving two-thirds of their income from this source have the privilege of filing their income governing the farm tax return.

Farmers who have a gross income of $600 or more are required to file a tax return. An Estimated Declaration setting up the tax liability within two-thirds of the accurate amount must be filed by January 31.

However, if a final return is filed by January 31, it eliminates the filing of the Estimated Declaration.

Farmers electing to file the Declaration on January 31, must file a final and accurate return by March 15. All tax shown to be due on both the Declaration and the final return must be paid on filing.

Immediately after January 1, Deputy Collectors of Internal Revenue will visit rural towns and areas to assist and advise in the preparation of tax returns. Usually the deputy collector will be located in the post office building. Ask your postmaster and watch this paper for the time the Deputy Collector will be in your community.

In filing the farmers' income tax return the Form 1040 must be used. If the adjusted gross income is less than $5000 the short form 1040 may be used. If over $5000, the long form 1040 must be used.

The adjusted gross income must be determined before taking any exemptions which may be allowed. The money received less such expenses as business expenses and allowable losses from the sale or exchange of property is "adjusted gross income."

The exemptions of farmers are the same as other taxpayers. Every individual filing a return is allowed a personal exemption of $600. Married couples are allowed an exemption of $1200. Each spouse is allowed a $600 exemption. A credit of $600 may be taken for each dependent.

All taxpayers, married or single, who are 65 years or over by the end of their taxable year qualify for an extra $600 exemption. This applies equally to husbands and wives. A person who is blind at the end of the taxable year also qualifies for an extra $600 exemption. A person who is over 65 and blind at the end of the taxable year qualifies for three $600 exemptions. (One standard exemption of $600; one for age and one for blindness. Thus it is possible for one individual to claim a personal exemption of $1800. However, each exemption must be specified.)

Watch this newspaper for the second article prepared by the Collector of Internal Revenue J. G. Smyth of the First California District dealing with the preparation and filing of farmer's income tax returns.

New School Rooms Planned To Meet Moreland Growth

A tentative master plan calling for the construction of two new kindergartens, six new classrooms, a shop and a cafetorium or multi-purpose room, will be submitted to the state for approval by the trustees of the Moreland School District.

The construction plan was announced at the Friday night meeting of the trustees and followed acceptance of a detailed survey of anticipated school district expansion and school attendance as submitted by Dr. James McConnell, assistant dean of Stanford University School Education and his graduate students.

According to the survey, enrollment in the Moreland school has increased by 400 percent in the last nine years with an 81 percent increase since 1947. Three hundred students are now enrolled in the school where 56 attended in 1940. Present facilities of the school, which include six new classrooms, are barely adequate to house the present enrollment, with an estimated enrollment of 632 foreseen by October 1951.

According to Dr. McConnell's survey, 400 new homes will be ready for occupancy by October, 1951, not counting 50 now under construction. State figures credit .80 children for each new home built, while actual figures in the Moreland district showed the relationship to be double the figure, or 1.80 children for each new family. Therefore, actual enrollment of the Moreland school might hit 1000 by October, 1951.

Moreland district is now bonded for $55,000, which makes it possible to pass bonds for approximately $35,000 more. State aid under the recently passed Proposition No. 1 may enable the trustees to secure emergency funds to complete building programs. The 1940 assessed valuation for each student was $21,000, but has now dropped to $7000.

Nat'l. Advertising Week, Jan. 8-14

This week has been proclaimed National Advertising Week as a tribute to the undisputed place which advertising holds on the American scene. The Governor of the State of California has proclaimed it as such. This article proposes to give a few illustrations of the value of the art of advertising.

Back in days gone by, ye olde towne crier reported to the village fountainhead of news and gossip, then hied himself out on the streets of the town and gave forth with the news of the day. Now, if some merchant with a sharper mien for business than the average were located in that town, we'll bet our bottom dollar that he slipped aforesaid crier the equivalent of a ten-spot, with instructioons for him to yodel, in between the society gossip and the birth notices, that "Braun's Bratwurst and pigs knuckles are the best in town."

With the coming into being of the art of printing, perhaps the first illustration of advertising occurred when Martin Luther posted his "95 Theses" on the church door at Wurtemburg. These theses were picked up by an early printer, put into type and spread all over Europe, instigating the Protestant Reformation. This particular incident showed the effectiveness of a timely piece of advertising, even though not quite in the form in which we now know it.

Now, let us suppose that all advertising were suddely to cease. In the first place, every newspaper in the country, every radio and television station, every magazine and many other types of allied business would suddenly find themselves in such a state of financial embarassment that most would have to close their doors. The housewife and the businessman would suddenly realize that one of their most valuable commodities had left them becalmed in a sea of ignorance.

This could go on in an interminable series of suppositions, all of them valid, and all of them with reason behind them. Suffice it to say, advertising is here to stay.

—Cliff Cassiday.

County Birth Rate Tripled Since Pre-War Days

Birth-rate figures in Santa Clara County have soared to almost three times that of pre-war days, according to County Recorder Charles Payne.

Payne indicated that the total of 8429 births in 1949 set a new record. Births now average approximately 700 a month compared with a pre-war monthly average of about 250 a month.

A total of 7837 babies were born in the county in 1948, while there were 7824 in 1947. Payne blamed the increase of new arrivals on the growth of Santa Clara Valley, adding: "What is going to happen a few years from now when we must have kindergartens for all these children?"

The Recorders' office also reported there were 2970 deaths reported in the County for 1949—762 of which were reported by the City Health Department.

$1000 Music Award Offered by James D. Phelan Estate

An announcement was made today by the trustees of the estate of the late Senator James D. Phelan, former Saratoga resident, of one award being offered for the year 1950, in the field of music and carrying a stipend of $1000. It is made available annually under the terms of a bequest to bring about a further development of native talent in California in the fields of literature and the arts.

Noel Sullivan, speaking for the trustees, called attention to the fact that applicants for the award, both men and women, must be native born citizens of California and must be between the ages of 20 and 40. Those competing must present a specimen of their achievement which includes a creative work of symphonic proportions, or a comparative work in the field of chamber music, choral, or opera. A committee of experts in the field of music will be appointed by the Trustees to recommend to them the successful candidate.

Applications must be made on forms especially provided for that purpose, and may be obtained from the office of the James D. Phelan Award in Literature and Art, 820 Phelan Building, San Francisco 2. The competition closes the 15th of March, 1950.

New Books Available Through County Library

Hayes, Alfred.
THE GIRL ON THE VIA FLAMINA. 1949.

A story laid in Italy after the liberation, during the period of adjustment and at a time of clash between the American "conquerors" and the simple people of the country. It is a time when there is little left to do, but to drink, to make love and to survive. This is as true for the conquering soldier as for the people. The latter can only watch helplessly while the American soldier makes himself at home in all the best living quarters of the occupied towns and makes love to Italy's women. This particular story is Lisa's, who, as a last resort, makes an "arrangement" with an American soldier. All that the lonely soldier wants in exchange for his PX wealth is a nice, clean girl and a clean, home-like room. But the arrangement does not work out. Lisa's reactions are too complex for such a planned and convenient relationship, and in the end she is unable to accept the genuine tenderness which is finally offered her.

Taylor, Elizabeth.
A WREATH OF ROSES. 1949.

Miss Taylor writes so beautifully that it hardly seems to matter what are the contents of her story. She always has at hand the perfect and simple word. "A Wreath of Roses" has no particular depth and yet one is left with the feeling of a new experience. The characters are so life-like that their presence lingers. The chief fault of this book is the denouement, plus the fact that there is one. For this is the sort of book which would have done better to end on a smoother note, undramatic and contained. Nevertheless, lovers of good writing in the graceful mode will definitely want to read this. "A View of the Harbor" and "Palladian," two of her earlier works are also on the shelves at headquarters.

Wellman, Paul I.
THE CHAIN. 1949.

After the first World War there was a general turning away from religion, but there is now, since the second war, a deep rooted desire all over the country for a renewed faith. "The Chain" is a book which should satisfy this desire, for it is the story of spiritual regeneration. The conflict is centered around a young Episcopalian minister who comes to Jericho, Kansas, to take over a parish dominated by the town's moneyed class. This group wishes to move the church from its present neighborhood and rebuild it in a more fashionable one but the new young minister wants his church to remain within reach of the poor and needy. Some of the characters are over-dramatized types, and there is a general slickness throughout the book, so that one wonders if Mr. Wellman did not have his eye on Hollywood. Because of this the book loses some of its purity of purpose, but it is impossible to doubt the author's sincerity or the importance of his theme. In its best moments "The Chain" rests upon spiritual truth and persuades us of the regenerative grace of the individual.

FEELINGS AND EMOTIONS

WITH the United Nations organization the center of world attention, it's little wonder that the unusual Second International Symposium on Feelings and Emotions which recently convened at Mooseheart, near Batavia, Ill., received scant public notice.

However, the conclave turned out to be one of the most important international scientific meetings held in a long time. More than 500 of the world's foremost psychologists and psychiatrists were present and when they started comparing notes on emotions and feelings they came out with some pronouncements that were as interesting as they were surprising.

For example, the male is the more emotional of the two sexes, despite the popuar and traditional view to the contrary, Dr. John E. Anderson of the University of Minnesota concluded this from his studies of pre-school children.

"The amount of social pressure placed upon the male to conceal his emotions may be one of the factors to account for this," Dr. Anderson said.

Worry is a much less dramatic emotional state than pain, hunger, fear or rage, but uncontrolled it can lead to actual disease, according to Dr. Nathan W. Shock of the U. S. Public Health Service. Dr. Shock told the meeting that men who study emotions and feelings must find out just exactly how worry causes disease symptoms.

Children's Emotions

Children's emotions took the spotlight for a day during the three-day sessions. Dr. Arnold Gesell, child psychology expert of Yale, concluded that, "Seven is the most sensitive age of your life."

Grief, joy and all man's emotions are now considered proper subject for scientific study, according to the results of a meeting of more than 500 of the world's leading psychologists at Mooseheart near Batavia, Illinois.

"The child of seven is especially sensitive to praise and blame, and will never afterward be so deeply influenced by the actions of his elders as at that age," Dr. Gesell added.

Drawings, pictures or scrawls your child makes between his fourth and tenth years are important, according to one of Europe's outstanding experts, Dr. L. van der Horst, of Holland. Men who are trained in the many tricks of emotions and feelings are able to study these scribblings and determine the structure of a child's mind.

Humor Kids

"Ninety per cent of the trouble with kids is not that parents react to what looks like a bad situation, but that they over-react to it," according to Dr. Fritz Redl from Wayne university.

The bad situation, he pointed out, may have taken several months to develop and parents ought to plan to take about the same time to straighten it out.

"And, at the same time, try—it may be hard, but try, anyway—to handle every crisis situation with a little humor. Humor inspires respect in kids. I mean genuine humor," Dr. Redl explained. "Not ridicule and not irony at the expense of kids. Cultivate the capacity for seeing something a little humorous in everything. The average youngster won't take advantage of it next time. He'll get the point and feel ashamed of himself, and at the same time respect you for the way you handled it."

The Second International Symposium on Feelings and Emotions clearly indicated that education has passed out of the period where feelings and emotions were viewed as insubstantial phantoms barred from scientific research and discussion.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Opinions expressed in letters to this department do not necessarily reflect the editorial policy of the Campbell Press.—Ed.

Dear Editor,

In this New Year, I would like to thank the people of Campbell for their help in starting a Pioneer Club for our elderly citizens.

It is a splendid success, and if you care to drop in, any day, to our warm, cozy clubhouse at 35 S. First street, you will find a goodly crowd—playing checkers, cards or just visiting. I have tendered my resignation as secretary-treasurer so the club is now self-governed with Mr. William Truax as president, Mr. W. Billings as secretary and Mr. G. Dohms as treasurer.

It certainly is a splendid orderly club, and is surely filling a long felt want. A very small monthly fee is paid in by the members for current expenses. Watch for their float on Old Settlers' Day, February 22.

CIVIL RIGHTS

By Herbert H. Lehman
Former Governor of New York State, and Former Director General of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

Herbert H. Lehman

Today there is a new stirring in the land. Spurred by the recent findings of President Truman's Committee on Civil Rights, millions of Americans are newly resolved to strengthen our heritage of freedom.

The Committee's scrutiny of civil rights comes at a time when every defect of democracy is magnified by those seeking to discredit our way of life. An urge for self-examination, coupled with a desire to right existing wrongs, is felt throughout the nation. The Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights reveals abuses that still occur, many hitherto unknown to complacent citizens. For example:

In the field of employment, prejudice against persons of certain races and religions often bars them from better paying positions which they are qualified to fill. The result: millions of families are doomed to poverty.

In housing, some property deeds have clauses forbidding the renting or selling to persons of certain races and religions. Result: millions of families are obliged to live in congested areas where disease and delinquency flourish.

In education, many colleges and professional schools refuse to accept qualified students because of their creed or color. Result: millions of qualified young Americans are denied the chance to develop their native talents.

Such abuses are costly. When Americans cannot get good work opportunities, good schooling, or good homes, the results hurt the entire nation. It is estimated, for instance, that discrimination against Negroes in employment costs the round sum of $4,000,000,000 annually in lost services, curtailed production and shrunken markets.

The prestige of the United States as the champion of freedom in other lands, suffers too. The President's Committee emphasizes that our form of government, more than any other yet devised by man, is geared to individual freedom—but the Report also points out that we must be free from bigotry to reach our goals.

The remedies which the President's Committee proposes are that we outlaw practices stemming from bigotry. Among vitally needed measures, the Committee urges a federal anti-lynch law, fair employment practices acts similar to the one existing in New York State, a federal law ensuring equal access to health services and all other public facilities. Discrimination in education and housing must also be banned by law.

Aware that government action must wait upon public opinion, the President's Committee calls for a long-range program of public education concerning "the civil rights we are entitled to and which we owe to one another."

To secure these rights, action is needed now. The American people must — through the ballot-box, the town meeting, the churches, schools and clubs of the community — join in upholding their Constitutional rights.

Kirkwood Named On Lobby Group

Robert C. Kirkwood of Saratoga was one of three State Assemblymen selected by Speaker Sam Collins to an interim committee to conduct a $7500 study of lobbying for report at the March legislative session.

This lobby study was authorized by the special pre-Christmas session of the Legislature. Following the passage of the Collier bill at that time, Governor Earl Warren remarked that he was not fully satisfied and would request stronger controls in March. He said that creation of the $7500 study committee morally obligates the Legislature to enact more lobby controls.

THE FARMER'S CORNER

By RALPH H. TAYLOR
(Executive Secretary, Agricultural Council of California).

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In this, the second of two articles on the subject Mr Taylor concludes an analysis of the practice of "lobbying" as it appears to the individual citizen.)

California's lawmakers, while pressed into special session in the pre-holiday season, enacted a regulatory measure concerning lobbying patterned after admittedly imperfect Federal Law.

A second step was taken, however, to refer the entire question of lobbying to an interim committee for further study; and if Governor Warren calls a special session of the Legislature to run concurrently with the March, 1950, Budget Session and, as expected, includes the subject of lobbying the State's solons undoubtedly will be called on to press the matter further.

Taking cognizance of the fact that the world is in an age when governments throughout the world are swinging toward the totalitarian philosophy, it should be remembered that there are several steps always decernible in the drive for omnipotent government.

One extremely important step is the taking away from the people of their freedom of speech, to their duly elected representatives in Congress, the Legislature, and elsewhere.

The rightness or wrongness of any lobby control measure passed by any legislative body should be measured against the constitutional standard guaranteeing freedom of speech. If it does not measure up, it is dangerous!

During Governor Warren's pre-Christmas special session of the Legislature the remark was repeatedly made that the fact that representatives of three of the major farm organizations in the State appeared in opposition to the so-called lobbying bills, which would interfere with the right of petition guaranteed to the people, was a potent commentary on the practices of these organizations in presenting their cases to the Legislature, and that their representatives would not have dared to appear as they did had their practices been questioned.

Registration of persons who appear before the Legislature will not hurt honest persons customarily engaged in representing their pricipals thinking to the Legislature, but when bills go so far as to interfere with the casual and incidental conversations or presentations of the citizens generally even though in a representative capacity and for compensation it is not good in that it will discourage people from expressing their views and views of those whom they represent.

Take for example: The farmers have an organization or association in some area of the State engaged in processing or marketing their products. They would expect their employees to look out for their interests, even if occasionally it involved legislation. Or they might pay a director a small stipend to appear before them in their behalf.

Under some of the bills presented at the recent special session of the Legislature the following procedure would be required: Before such an employee or other person could even speak to a legislator in his home town or at the Capitol about legislation—regardless of how urgent the call might be he would have to get written authorization from the group he represents and by whom he is paid file the same under oath with the Secretary of State; and state what his compensation was, what he expected to spend for expenses, and what particular legislation he was interested in, whether or not he knew at the time just how far-reaching his interests would be.

Then each month in which he did anything of this sort he would have to file an itemized statement of his expenses and keep for two years the vouchers for all expenditures of $10 or $25 the amount depending on the particular measure under consideration. And for the priviledge of speaking freely he would have to pay the Secretary of State a fee of five dollars.

After it was over, he would have to file another such statement, itemizing all expenditures and those who employed him would also have to file a detailed statement of how much they paid him for expenses etc.

The public must decide on one of two things: Either that they want their own rights preserved even though some lawbreakers may escape or that they are willing to sacrifice their freedoms in order to make it easier to supervise the few who violate the law.

Too often, too many people like to take the easy way to catch criminals —by regulating everyone else—whereas they should leave the upright citizens as free as possible to take the harder way of catching criminals by the detection process. It is not difficult to tell where the trouble lies, and from then on it is only a question of doing the necessary police work to catch the lawbreakers at it and bring them to the bar of justice.

These things the legislators should bear in mind when they undertake a study on the question of lobbying. The people of California have too much at stake to deal with the problem either politically or superficially.

MONTALVO GROUP TAKING STEPS TO INCORPORATE

President Mrs. Percy Hincks of the Montalvo Society stated that the society is taking steps to incorporate Montalvo in the event of the transfer of trusteeship.

Following the recent Superior Court ruling that Villa Montalvo cannot convert to residuary heirs of the late Senator James Phelan, Montalvo Society of San Francisco Art Association is readying itself to undertake management of the property for its intended purpose as a cultural center.

Mrs. Hincks remarked that the selection of directors in this area would depend on the popular interest displayed here. She also stated that if trusteeship were to put in the hands of a group in Montalvo, outside countywide support would be necessary to continue the work.

In addition to the trust fund, the estate itself yields some income through rental of artists' quarters on the grounds and through different events staged there.

Adult Theater Workshop's 'Skylark' Set For January 28 At Los Gatos

"Skylark," the production of the Samson Raphaelson play by the Los Gatos Adult High School Theater Workshop, will be presented January 28 at 8:15 p.m. in Los Gatos High School auditorium, under the direction of Lilian Fontaine.

Cast of characters for the play is as follows: George Gorell played by Ed Williams; Theodore the butler by Art Dana; Tony Kenyon by Paul Beaudry; Lydia Kenyon, Alice Swan; Ned Franklin, Lee Corey; Charlotte Franklin, Calire Loftus; maid, Marilyn Coates; Bill Blake, Frank Hawkes; Myrtle Valentine, Lucy Mueller; Harley Valentine, Raymond Martin.

Harrison McCreath of the San Jose State College faculty has designed the smart new set, and the stage crew has been hard at work building new flats and French doors. Mrs. Fontaine hopes to have a ceiling for the set this time to provide better acoustics and to reduce the need for strenuous voice projetcion on the part of the cast.

Mr. D. R. Leland and Captain Thomas A. Symington have been the regular volunteers who have worked so hard during the Christmas holiday building the sets, and a number of other volunteers have joined them recently.

Mrs. Fontaine terms "Skylark" an unusual play for her since it is not a costume play, the first in some time. "It's quite up to date," she says, "in spite of all the recent legislation."

Tickets are priced at $1 and $1.50, and may be purchased at the Saratoga Drug Store or the drug store at the corner of Main Street and Santa Cruz Avenue, Los Gatos. All seats are reserved.

NEXT PRODUCTION

In discussing plans for the next production, Mrs. Fontaine said she plans to do Elmer Rice's "Street Scene" next.
